

St Luke's College Foundation

Anglican Chaplaincy Assistant, University of Exeter two posts, 12 hours per week, 32 weeks p/a

Thank you for your interest in the role of Chaplaincy Assistant for the Anglican Chaplaincy at the University of Exeter.

Salary

The Chaplaincy Assistants are appointed and employed by the St Luke's College Foundation, and report to the Lazenby Chaplain. The successful candidates will be Associate members of staff of the University. The post/s are a fixed term appointment for one academic year.

The posts are part-time, 12 hours per week, for 32 weeks per year. The 32 weeks cover University term-time plus two weeks before autumn term. The hours of work are flexible and will include work at weekends. The salary is based on the University of Exeter scale for Grade C posts and it will change in line with that. The salary paid for the 32 weeks work will not be less £5,933.

The Anglican Chaplaincy

There has been an Anglican presence on each of the campuses in Exeter – Streatham and St Luke's - since their foundation. We take a full part in the life of the University, with services and events based mainly around our two beautiful Chapels – the Mary Harris Chapel and the St Luke's Chapel.

Our regular termtime services and events include –

- Daily Prayer throughout the week at both Chapels
- A weekday student-run evening discussion group on Streatham Campus, which Chaplaincy supports.
- A Wednesday Choral Evensong at Mary Harris Chapel
- A weekly Bible study
- A Sunday 5pm Choral Eucharist service
- A Sunday 7pm ecumenical service at Mary Harris Chapel, led jointly with our Free Church Chaplaincy.

We have special events and services throughout the year, including Remembrance, Christmas and Lent, when the Anglican Chapels take the lead in marking the season for the University.

The Anglican Chapels are home to the University of Exeter Chapel Choir, which is made up of 26 auditioned choral scholars. The Choir sing services in the University Chapel as well as giving concerts and touring both in this country and abroad.

The Chaplaincy Assistants will take a full role in services and events run by the Anglican Chaplaincy, and will be actively encouraged to be creative about trying new things.

The Anglican Chaplaincy is part of the Multi-faith Chaplaincy Team, providing pastoral care for students and staff of all faiths and none. The Anglican Chaplaincy team regularly join with our Multi-faith colleagues to run special events for the University, including social events, trips, Fresher's week events and drop-ins. Find out more about the Chaplaincy at www.exeter.ac.uk/chaplaincy

The Chaplaincy is a vibrant and interesting place to work. We do hope you will consider joining us for the coming academic year. Please contact Rev Hannah Alderson on h.alderson@exeter.ac.uk or 07342 025846 if you have any questions about the post.
